

Restoring Body Image After Cancer: An ONLINE Support Group

For many women, a diagnosis of cancer and its treatment can have a significant impact on body image, emotional well-being, sexual health and relationships, even after treatments have finished.

What is the study about?

The study purpose is to examine the usefulness of an online support group for women with breast cancer or gynecological cancer on topics about body image and sexuality. The study will assess the acceptance and effectiveness of the online group, as well as satisfaction of participating in such a group.

Eligible Participant:

- ✓ Between ages 18-65
- ✓ Diagnosis of primary breast cancer or gynecological cancer
- ✓ Completed or nearing end of treatment
- ✓ No history of a psychiatric disorder
- ✓ Concerns with issues around body image and sexuality
- ✓ Not currently participating in a therapist-led support group

For more information please contact:
Dr. Lianne Trachtenberg, Principal Investigator
Toronto General Research Institute, University Health Network
(416) 634-8155, lianne.trachtenberg@uhnresearch.ca

Please note that communication through email is not absolutely secure. Thus, please do not communicate personal sensitive information through email.